Hi Steve,

As per our conversation this afternoon, I feel confident that on a blue bird day we will have no trouble with access in and out of the development. As previously mentioned, as long as the road is maintained (most especially in the winter and surface conditions) as private roads go, we are able to make access.

Additionally, until the cisterns are installed and operational and likely even after - fire suppression efforts will require tanker shuttles which will result in a lot of truck traffic in and out to the nearest water supply.

Please let me know if you have any other questions.
