Fake News: Its Challenges, Consequences, and Rise Wednesday, October 2nd 6-7pm

Through videos and slides, the session will examine the history of misinformation, the psychology of irrationality brought about by biases, the role of technology in its creation and spread, and resources to help verify images and stories.
For more information, contact Ray Marcotte at the library:
207-892-1908.

Author Talk:

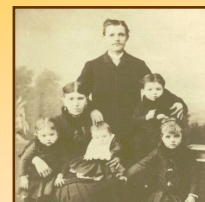

Mary Lou Bagley
Wednesday, October 9th
6-7pm

With an ear for dialogue, strong characterizations, and exquisite details, Bagley delivers a story that leaves readers wanting more. Fortunately for all, this debut novel is the first in a series! Set in Maine, Other Wise introduces a cast of characters who will find their way into your dreams and beyond. For more information, contact Ray Marcotte at the library: 207-892-1908.

DNA & Genealogy Wednesday, October 30th 6-7pm

Maine State Library genealogy specialist B.J.
Jamieson will help you determine what DNA test should you take, what do the results mean, and how can you use them to connect with family? For more information, contact Ray Marcotte at the library: 207-892-1908.

Chat with the Director

Three members of the Library staff will be attending this year's Maine Library Association (MLA) conference. The event is held at the Sunday

River Resort in Newry, Maine and allows staff to participate in many interesting programs. Alvino says, "Our library is fortunate to be able to send staff to various learning opportunities throughout the year." The MLA conference also offers opportunities to network with other library staff from throughout the State. This year, the conference has had its highest attendance in many years (over 200 participants!). Library Director Jen Alvino just happens to be the MLA's president this year, and she's been working hard on registration and all other aspects of the conference.

Director Jen Alvino reminds you that the Library will be at Windham's Public Safety Day on Saturday, October 5th from 10am-1pm. Visit our table, co-sponsored by Parks and Recreation, the Windham Historical Society, and the Windham Public Library! This event will be the kick-off for the town's bicentennial celebration. At 10am there will be a ceremonial flag-raising. Stop by to see Library staff, do a craft at our table, and find out information about upcoming bicentennial events.

Library staff will also be attending Trunk or Treat at the Windham Middle School on October 26th from 6-8pm.

Look for Ms. Sam and Ms. Jen at this community Halloween event. They'll have a Halloween-y trunk and some treats!
